

RESTAURANTS

A running list of local restaurants and breweries celebrating Pride Month

Businesses are giving back to the LGBTQ community with proceeds from limited-edition beers, desserts, and more.

By Erin Kushner

updated on June 7, 2021

With Boston Pride making the decision to move its 2021 festivities online, there won't be a physical parade to watch before heading off to grab drinks or a bite with friends. But that doesn't mean restaurants and breweries are tabling their annual celebrations.

To honor Pride Month, a handful of local eateries, taprooms, and wine shops are offering drink specials, limited-edition beer releases, desserts, and more. And they're not just sticking a rainbow flag in a sandwich and calling it a day, either. Many are donating proceeds from specials and events to causes like BAGLY, the Boston Alliance of Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, and Transgender Youth; the It Gets Better Project; and GLAAD, the Gay & Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation.

Clink

On June 10, Clink at The Liberty Hotel will host a special Pride dinner featuring a lineup of rosé (and frosé!) alongside crispy oyster po' boys, Long Island duck breast, sirloin with mushrooms and leek confit, and crème brûlée with port-soaked raspberries. A portion of ticket sales will go toward The Theater Offensive, a performing arts organization highlighting work by, for, and about queer and trans people of color.